

BEFORE YOU SCOOP

What's actually out there

A single gram of dog waste carries millions of bacteria. Left on the grass it does not simply wash away — it soaks in.

Roundworm & hookworm

Eggs survive in soil for months and reinfect the same dog that left them.

Giardia

Spreads dog to dog through contaminated ground, and does not need direct contact.

Children play there too

Bare feet, dropped toys, hands in the grass. This is the part most owners never think about.

It does not compost

Dog waste is too acidic to break down like leaf litter. It sits, and it accumulates.

THE FIX IS BORING

Someone reliable removes it every week and hauls it away. That is the whole service — and it is the one thing on your list that stays done.

WHY IT MATTERS

Four reasons owners call us

Parasites don't wait

Roundworm, hookworm and giardia live in waste and survive in soil for months, reinfecting your dog and reaching your kids.

It ruins your grass

Concentrated nitrogen burns yellow patches into turf and kills the roots underneath.

It reaches our creeks

Rain carries bacteria into St. Louis storm drains and streams, and eventually the Missouri and Mississippi.

You get the yard back

No more scanning the ground before you mow, garden, or let the kids run.
