

BEFORE YOU BOOK

The rest of them

Do I need to be home?

No. Most customers never are. We text when we are on the way and again when the yard is clear.

What about my gate?

We photograph it latched on the way out if you ask, and the latch is double-checked every visit either way.

What if my dog is outside?

Tell us and we will work around it, or come back. The crew works with dogs every day and will not push a dog that wants space.

Can I pause for winter?

Yes. Pause, change frequency, or stop with a week's notice.

THE COMMON ONES

What people actually ask

Is the first cleanup really free?

Yes, with any residential monthly plan, and however long it has been since the yard was last scooped. It is the whole first visit, not a discount on it.

Where does the waste go?

With us. Everything is bagged and hauled off your property — it never goes into your own bin to sit until collection day.

How much is it?

Flat monthly rates by dog count and frequency, starting at $65 a month for once-a-month service for one dog. The current table is on the website; scan the code on the back.

How long does a visit take?

Fifteen to twenty minutes for a standard yard. You will usually only know we came from the text.

THE AWKWARD ONES

Asked less, worth answering

Is the crew insured?

Yes, and every team member is background-checked before they set foot on your property. Ask any company this.

What if you miss something?

Tell us within 48 hours and we re-service the yard free. No argument about it.

Do you do one-time cleanups?

Yes. $100 flat, any yard, any condition, no plan required — spring resets and move-outs mostly.

What if my yard is really bad?

It is not the worst one this week. The free first cleanup that comes with any residential plan applies regardless of how long it has been.

THE FINE PRINT

Worth knowing

Published rates cover standard residential lots up to about a third of an acre in our service area. Larger lots, extra dogs or long-neglected yards may need a custom quote — we will tell you before we start, not after.
