The weekly plan is $80 a month. Spread across fifty-two visits a year that is about $18.50 each — for the job you have been putting off since it got cold.

WHAT THAT ACTUALLY BUYS

The fifteen minutes is not really the point.

Almost nobody hires this out to save a quarter of an hour. They hire it out because it is the chore that never gets done on time — it gets done when it has become bad enough to notice, which is always later than it should be.

A schedule fixes that in a way willpower does not. The yard stops having a worst state, because nothing accumulates long enough to get there.

The other half is what you stop doing: no bag in the bin all week, no boots by the back door, no arguing about whose turn it is, and no discovering the corner behind the shed in April.

ALL FOUR PLANS, PER MONTH, ONE DOG

- Twice weekly — $90, about $10.40 a visit
- Weekly — $80, about $18.50 a visit
- Every other week — $70, about $32 a visit
- Once a month — $65 flat, one reset

The twice-weekly plan is the cheapest per visit.

Which surprises most people. Scan or call and we will tell you which one actually fits your yard, even when it is not the dearest one.
